See How Thato Mastered His Finances

Thato used to have all his investments in one account. It was messy, and he found it hard to track his progress toward different strategies. Then he started using Multiple Accounts. Here's how he structured his profile:

Investment account 1

Core Holdings

An account for his foundational CFD positions. Available funds in this account can earn a competitive interest rate, helping his capital work for him even between trades

Investment account 2

Dividend Engine

A separate investment account focused solely on building a stream of dividend income

Investment account 3

Crypto Holdings

A dedicated account to isolate and manage his cryptocurrency trading activities

Margin trading account 1

Trading Playground

A margin account for his higher-risk, short-term trading ideas

For Thato, multiple accounts turned a single, cluttered portfolio into a clear, strategic command center where every goal has its own dedicated space and every rand has a purpose — all within a single BROKSTOCK profile.
