- 10.23. The Company reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to temporarily suspend or restrict trading activity during the period two (2) minutes before and two (2) minutes after any critical press release or major economic announcement. This measure is implemented to mitigate execution risk, excessive market volatility, and potential pricing irregularities that may arise during such events. Clients acknowledge and accept that such temporary restrictions are standard risk-management procedures applied to ensure the stability and integrity of trade execution through the Company's authorised Liquidity Providers..
- 10.24. The Client is prohibited from performing Scalping Trades. The Company reserves the right to cancel any trades that have been closed within the two (2) minute limit, and has the right to act according to the specific clause of this Agreement.

- 10.27. The Client must possess a comprehensive understanding of how a specific exchange executes orders, including in-depth knowledge of the mechanics behind bid and ask prices. This includes familiarity with order book dynamics, the impact of market depth on order execution, and how various order types (such as market, limit, and stop orders) interact with the bid-ask spread. Such knowledge is crucial for making informed trading decisions and effectively managing risk.

10.28. In the event that a Client engages in short-selling a CFD and the Company receives an instruction from the exchange to cover the short position due to the unavailability of sufficient shares to borrow, any resulting loss will be solely borne by the Client's trading account. Clients must familiarise themselves with the risks associated with short-selling, particularly in the context of illiquid shares, where the lack of available shares can force the premature closure of positions. Additionally, Clients should understand that when short-selling a CFD, they are responsible for any dividends due on the underlying asset, which can further impact their position.

5. If the Client makes a deposit during official holidays or weekends in South Africa, there may be delays in crediting the funds to the Client's Trading Account. As a result, the funds may not be immediately available for trading until the next business day when normal banking operations resume.
6. The Company shall make withdrawals of Client funds upon the Company receiving a relevant request from the Client in the method accepted by the Company from time to time.

The Company reserves the right, at its sole discretion, to apply deposit handling fee as a reasonable and transparent platform service fee covering the integration, maintenance, and processing of deposits.. The applicable deposit handling

21. To prevent Transitioning of Funds, the Company establishes two types of Fees:
 - Early Withdrawal Fee will be charged in amount of 10% on any funds withdrawn within 30 days of deposit;

22. These Fees will be applied at the discretion of Company's compliance and risk teams in order to assess each case individually and take the appropriate measures as necessary.

Such measures are designed to discourage the misuse of Trading Accounts, such as rapidly depositing and withdrawing funds without engaging in Substantial Investment Activities.

23. For legal entities, all deposits must originate from the entity's own bank account held in its legal name. The Company shall not accept any payments made from third-party or personal accounts of directors, shareholders, or employees. The legal and regulatory environment is constantly evolving, which can impact the value and legality of crypto assets.
